The San Francisco News Letter says: Mantia has come news of the marriage there on the 9th of June of Elizabeth Egbert and Lieutenant Evans Kilbourne, U. S. A. An elaborate wedding took place at the home of Mrs. Egbert on Wednesday last. Miss Mabel Nixon became the bride. Lieutenant Harris Lansing, U. S. N., who, as an officer of the Philadelphia, was not unknown in San Francisco society. The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride, in a room lower in which the national colors and Lemniscate roses were the component parts, placed in the presence of a few intimate friends the bride was given away by her father, Thomas Nixon. She wore a white satin trimmed with orange and blue blossoms and attended by her sister, Miss Mabel Nixon, and a young woman of white fallie. Lieutenant Raby was the best man. A large reception followed the ceremony and the happy couple left in the afternoon for Petersburg, Ill. en route to Washington City. Lieutenant Kilbourne is well known in Honolulu, having passed through in 1899 with the signal corps.

Mr. F. R. Day of Honolulu, and Mrs. J. Myers (formerly of Honolulu, now living in San Francisco) together with fifty-five trout in two and one-half hours at McKinney's on Lake Tahoe. This is the best record ever made by a fisherman in such a short time. Mr. Day had rowed the boat for some time that day, and had had many years' experience on Lake Tahoe. He claims it will never be done again. He speaks in the highest praise of the way the Honolulu ladies handled the rods. Six of the largest fish were taken by the ladies, and the remainder by the men. The following day Mrs. Day hooked and landed on a light house a three-pound trout, the first one ever caught at McKinney's.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Isenberg were dinner last Monday evening in the home of Mr. Henock, at the residence, 100 of Finsbury street and Wilder street. Covers were laid for twelve. The white and green were the prevailing hues in the decorative color scheme. Carnations, mums and ferns were tastefully spread in profusion on the table. The dinner was an exquisite one, and the table appointments were exquisite. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. Suhr, Dr. and Mrs. Averill, Dr. and Mrs. Walter Hoffmann, Mr. and Mrs. George R. Carter and Mr. and Mrs. Isenberg. After dinner dancing was the feature.

Mr. Harold Sewall returned from his trip to San Francisco to meet Mrs. Sewall on her arrival from Honolulu, says the San Francisco News Letter of July 29. On Wednesday left for the Islands the steamer Australia. Mr. and Mrs. Sewall were the recipients of many hospitable greetings the past ten days. Last Saturday they were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Wilson at Burlingame. Mrs. Sewall will remain in San Francisco several weeks, and then go east with her children to visit Mr. Sewall in Maine.

The results of Honoluluans in the past week to the Coast, to Europe and around the world, has produced a lethargy in matters. A gap has been made in the difficult to fill. Society buds and society matrons by the score have turned away on summer's vacations, and have returned from abroad to their places. There have been few parties and luncheons this week of a nature sufficient to give them a taste of functions.

Dr. Frank R. Day entertained a dinner party of six at his colonial residence Sunday evening last, in honor of Mrs. W. H. Wilson of San Francisco. Those present besides the host and the guest of honor were Dr. George Herbert, Dr. R. G. Walters, Dr. Walter Hoffmann and Dr. Garvin.

Mr. W. H. Cornwell, Democratic National Committee man for Hawaii, gave a large dinner party at the Hawaiian Hotel Sunday evening in honor of the Hawaiian delegates. The ordinary was lavishly for the festive occasion, and the Quintette Club sang popular airs.

Mr. Henry Most, the French Vice Consul at Honolulu, says the Argonaut, a manager from the Islands by the steamer Alameda on Monday. He is at the Occidental Hotel and will soon leave for Paris, where he will make a stay of some duration.

JUDGE ESTEE MAY GO TO MAUI ISLE

Residents Want Him To Come There To Naturalize Them.

Judge Estee may possibly hold sessions of the United States District and Circuit Courts on the Island of Maui. Attorney George Hons of Maui was in consultation with Judge Estee yesterday on the subject. He represented to him that there are a large number of residents on the island who are anxious to take out naturalization papers. At present there is no method for them to do so save to come to Honolulu and as this entails a good deal of expense some are not able to take out their papers.

Judge Estee said that he doubted his right to hold court anywhere except in Honolulu, but said that owing to the peculiar conditions here he might be able to obtain a decision from Washington that would give him authority to go to Maui and others of the Islands and hold sessions of his court to take up naturalization matters.

CROWDS VIEW THE SAVED DUNREGGAN

A GREAT many people, waterfronters and business folk, sightseers and curious ones, men, women and children, too, went to the old Fishmarket wharf yesterday in the morning and afternoon to get a look at the British bark Dunreggan, saved on Friday from destruction on Diamond Head reef by the united efforts of the tugs Fearless, Eleu and Iroquois, and now snugly moored to the wharf the farthest at the Ewa end of the waterfront. She is leaking slightly, but is otherwise in very fair condition. The pounding she encountered within a quarter of a mile of "Diamond Head Charlie's" residence evidently did not do her much damage beyond cutting a few bolts, and it is not likely that she will need much repairing. Yesterday was Captain Brookaw's busy day for congratulations. The Dunreggan was the first vessel he towed into the harbor. He has his right hand in a sling now on account of the continual shaking. No doubt some of the handshakers know it's a good thing to be friends with a man who can come into the harbor with, say, about $20,000 on the end of a string. Captain Macauley, who commanded the Eleu and helped pull the Dunreggan off the reef, also came in for his share of congratulations. The Eleu did her share. As soon as the bark has discharged her cargo a survey will be held by the board appointed on Friday, consisting of Captains Davis, Williamson and Campbell, to ascertain the extent of the damages. The question of compensation will be settled by arbitration.

KONA SCHOOLS Hard To Get Teachers There.

Former Inspector General Townsend Speaks of the Conditions Prevailing.

Former Inspector General of Schools Townsend returned yesterday from a trip through the Kona districts of Hawaii, where he went for the purpose of looking up the situation with reference to the teaching force for next year. There have been a number of resignations from the teaching staff of the Kona this year and it was necessary to have some one look over the situation so that the Board might make arrangement for others to replace them.

"We have found the positions in Kona hard to fill except where there are suitable places for the teachers to live," said Mr. Townsend yesterday, "and these are hard to find in most of the outlying portions of the Kona. Mr. and Mrs. O'Connor, who have been at Keauhou, Kona, have resigned. Two ladies who live four miles from the school have taken their places temporarily but we shall have to fill them sooner or later, for they live too far away. I went to Papa, South Kona, where there is a new school recently completed and not yet occupied. I had to find a place there for the teacher to live. The necessity of a school in the district has been known for some time and we have just been able to build a new one there. I found some girls there who were twelve and thirteen years of age who could not read or write, either English or Hawaiian. The number of children there was so small formerly that we did not need a school, but of late years, since the advance of the coffee-growing industry, the population of the district has increased, and now there are about twenty children who will attend the new school."

"I went through the entire coffee belt and found that while there will not be a first-class crop this year owing to the drought of last winter, from what I saw I should say that there will be, I should judge, a fair income from the capital invested in the more favorable localities, even at the present low prices of sugar. Mr. F. Buchholz told me that he should make money this year but not enough to satisfy him and he proposes to double the area which he has under cultivation. The Kona people are as enthusiastic about sugar this year as they were two years ago about coffee. Cane-growing is being done on many of the small holdings from Kalaheka to Kailua, besides much on lands owned by the Kona Sugar Company in the north and by W. R. Castle in the south. It would be hard to find finer cane than in South Kona. Of the northern part I cannot speak, for I did not go into the cane fields."

Mr. Townsend saw Governor Dole on Hawaii and also Commissioner of Public Lands Brown, who was on the island for the purpose of looking up the matter of the sale and lease of some of the Territorial lands on the island.

TALKING TO LANAI. Communication is Established by Way of Molokai.

Yesterday communication was established by wireless telegraphy between Lanai and Molokai and Honolulu. Some time ago Lanai was connected with Oahu but it was found that the distance was too great to give effective service so it was decided to send the messages by way of Molokai. The station on that island is now completed and communication is perfect between the three islands. There is but one link in the chain of stations between here and Hawaii to be finished. That is at Makana on Maui. From Lanai communication will be established with the Makana station and thence the channel between Maui and Hawaii will be bridged. As soon as this last station is finished it will be possible to communicate with Hilo direct.
